He Decides

Ace Of Base

Can't you hear them whispering, around you all the time
Can't you tell the difference between, things when you're in love
I hear your voice is trembling, every time when he's around
Your detached engagements, in the things I say means love, oh
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be happy
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be glad
If he doesn't love you, you're afraid you can't go on Living without loving, never makes a person strong
If he really loves you, let him show you that instead
I will be here with you, 'cause I know that you're afraid of love
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be happy
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be sad

You'll never change my mind my friend
Don't let this feeling go
And love might change your world around
In time you'll have to know, oh yea
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be happy
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be happy
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be happy
He decides whether you should smile
Whether you should cry
Whether you should be glad
He decides, whether you should smile yea
He decides, whether you should cry

He decides, whether you should cry
He decides, in your dreams can you make him cry

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/