

I'd Be Lyin'

Lucy Angel

At the start I told myself that gettin' over you'd be easy
So what if you walked off, and left my world in pieces
The truth was I was hurting, as I pulled it all together
You have to have a heart of stone and not to mourn the loss of forever

CHORUS:

But I'd be lying if I said I wasn't lonely
I don't want someone to hold me
That I didn't spend a few nights crying
I'd be lying if I said you didn't change me
I've been realizing lately
If I said that I still loved you
I'd be lying
Now that I've climbed that mountain
Oh the air's a little clearer
And I see a woman moving on as I look in the mirror
And I caught myself today, looking forward to tomorrow
Slowly filling up the empty places and spaces

You left hollow

CHORUS:

But I'd be lying if I said I wasn't lonely
I don't want someone to hold me
That I didn't spend a few nights crying
I'd be lying if I said you didn't change me
I've been realizing lately
If I said that I still loved you
I'd be lying
I'd be lying

Oooooooooohhhh

BRIDGE:

I'd be lying if I said I wasn't lonely
I don't want someone to hold me
I'd be lying if I said you didn't change me
I've been realizing lately
If I said that I still loved you
I'd be lying
I'd be lying if I said I wasn't lonely
I don't want someone to hold me
That I didn't spend a few nights crying
I'd be lying
Oh, I'd be lying

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>