

Road Games

Allan Holdsworth

I can see miles and miles away
Moving along this southern bay
Seems like the road can go on forever
And ever, and ever These are road games
Silent road games Heat of the sun is in my brain
Day turns to night, I feel the pain
Eyes are so tired they just turn into water
To water, to water Guilty road is gaining light
Shiver and chills, my body fights
Everything's plain but the grass is still greener
Forever, and ever These are road games
Silent road games These are road games
Silent road games These are road games
Silent road games These are road games
Silent road games
