Way Out

Thorne Empire

Sometimes I see the way out
And you keep pulling me back to the start
I gave it all that I got, and it still wasn't enough
I never measure up to the image you got.

See me, I am begging you, please.
I need to feel wanted, I need to be here.
You throw me out, and lock me outside.
I feel like a fool standing around waiting for you

I keep trying to reach for starts
And you keep shooting me down.
I got nothing to prove,
And yet, I feel like I should.

One hundred words, one hundred strikes
One hundred times you broke my heart.
I keep showing you the light,
And you push the darkness through.

Come back, I am waiting for you
Save me, I am hoping you do
Stand by me, as I stand behind you.
See me, as you never saw me before.

My head screams out loud.
My body is telling me to run.
I am just a fool, still waiting for you.
Last chance before I give up.
Before the bridges we build have fallen apart.
If no answer I get, or the same old regret
I will fade into the road that's ahead.
