

All That Jazz

Echo & the Bunnymen

Where the hell have you been We've been waiting with our best suits on Hair slicked back and all that jazz
Rolling down the Union Jack See you at the barricades babe
See you when the lights go low, Joe
Hear you when the wheels turn round
Someday when the sky turns black It appears because it's what I feel
I know I don't understand
If you ask you know I don't mind kneeling
But when my knees hurt I like to stand Instinct is the common lawyer
A million years won't erase
Strike the chord I'm searching for
Call it a committed race No matter how I shake my fist
I know I can't resist it
No matter how you shake your fist
You know you can't resist it See you at the barricades babe
See you when the lights go low, Joe
Hear you when the wheels turn round
Someday when the sky turns black

Songwriters

MCCULLOCH, IAN STEPHEN/SERGEANT, WILLIAM ALFRED/PATTINSON, LESLIE THOMAS/DE FREITAS, PETER LOUIS VINCENT Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc. Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>