

Unforgiven

Climate Control

As you opened up my eyes, no past will be remembered
Just drown all your fears in my dreams, in my heart Oh, the madness starts here. I can't be away for much longer
Or I will burn
These thoughts are killing me faster than any poison would
I'm encaged You felt the cold of the morning
But you won't feel the cold of the night
You will battle through the rest of this nightmare
I'd hate to be you I can't open up my heart and let you take my blood flow
For you don't know the meaning of love
You're empty Your wake of disaster will hardly be forgotten
As you know well
You will never stop there, your train will move relentless
And I'm ashamed You felt the cold of the morning
But you won't feel the cold of the night
You will battle through the rest of this nightmare
I'd hate to be you
