Radio Girl

Doug Paisley

Oh radio girl play that sweet heavenly song
Well it's Saturday night and we all get into town

Broken by heartache but driven by her sound
Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl

Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam

Cause the drive-in is closing, the movies out of work
But the music is playing in my old Bett Betty Ford
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl

Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam

Standing in the rain with one coin for a booth call
Oh Madeline, the station told my that they didn't even know your name, FOR HELVEDE

Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline
The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends

Broken by heartache but driven by her sound
Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart
Oh radio man would you please play that song
One day I know that I'll marry that girl

Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up
Alone I roam

Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline
The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends
