

I Thought of God

Porter Wagoner

I walked through the whispering forest, not a man made sound could I hear

A time fawn was playing there without a sign of fear

I walked alone up to mountain and looked out over the sea

I saw an eagle spread his wings in flight so gracefully I knew that I was walking where mortals should not tread and

There on the lonely mountain I stopped and I thought of God

Then I walked through a busy city it was built by men and steel A young one cries and old one dies where love and hate are real

Then I knew that I was walking where many men had trod and

There in the busy city I stopped and thought, I thought of God
