

No Umbrella

Nina Vidal

I saw you,
By the roadside,
Waiting for love,
To come roll by,
And I said to myself,
There goes a man of emotion,
And I said to myself,
His heart is bound to be broken.

How can a man just stand in the rain,
With no umbrella,
Stand in a road and catching a cold,
With no umbrella.

Stand your ground,
Stay in your place,
The rain came down,
Stinging your face,
And I said to myself,
Now there goes a man of emotion,
And I said to myself,
His heart is bound to be broken.

How can a man just stand in the rain,
With no umbrella,
Stand in a road and catching a cold,
With no umbrella.

Did you think that love would come,
Did you somehow expect to find the one,
And in your dreams does she complete your perfect friend,
But all you got was me,
To save you from your dream.

And I took you out,
Oh what a sweet memory is in me,
And I want you now,
Without seeing her needing kisses.

How can a man just stand in the rain,

With no umbrella,
Stand in a road and catching a cold,
With no umbrella.

And I said to myself,
There goes a man of emotion,
And I said to myself,
His heart is bound to be broken,
And I said to myself,
Now there goes a man of emotion,
And I said to myself,
His heart is bound to be broken.
