

No Greater Love

Leon Huff

For the city, for the world we pray

    Let Your light shine down

    Come around and live in us

For the close and the far away

    Everywhere You are

    Everywhere

And we lift high the banner of the cross

There is no greater love than this, no love but this

    Jesus Christ laid down His life for us

There is no greater love than His, no love but His

    To the city, to the world we go

    Set us free, heal the land

You have promised, God, You can

    To the last and the least we go

    Everywhere You are

    Everywhere

And we lift high the banner of the cross

There is no greater love than this, no love but this

    Jesus Christ laid down His life for us

There is no greater love than His, no love but His

    In the poor, in the broken

    In the crowded city streets

    In the towers, in the money

    In the strong and in the weak

    In the orphans and the widows

    In the churches and the bars

    You are everywhere

    God, You are everywhere

And we lift high the banner of the cross

There is no greater love than this, no love but this

    Jesus Christ laid down His life for us

There is no greater love than His, no love but His
