Reverie

The Morning Of

Another morning with my eyes towards the Hudson
Wishing the current would carry me away
And I would kill to make it to the Atlantic
If the world would only stop for me

Another day that I can't face your blue eyes
We are falling apart and I'm scared to death
You were much worse for the wear and I...
Am taking the blame for this

I am falling towards the coast
Let the waves crash over me
To life, to glory goes the toast
as I become the sea

Lord, get me out of this city tonight
Cause you are what made me feel alive
Here I am again, running away from the truth
Just know, that you move me, like I've never been moved Yeah, like I've never been moved

Another night, looking past you towards the Hudson
Wishing I could move the mountains with my two eyes
I would kill to make it to the horizon
If the world would only stop for us

Another day that I crumbled beneath the sky
With my regrets taking the place of all my dreams
It's all thats left to fill the void you leave
But I, I guess I always had the choice

I am falling towards the coast
Let the waves crash over me

To life, to glory goes the toast
as I become the sea

Lord, get me out of this city tonight
Cause you are what made me feel alive

Here I am again, running away from the truth
Just know, that you move me, like I've never been moved

They say the wind is everyone that you've ever loved
Grazing their lips upon your cheek
(spending forever in reverie...)
And they say the wind is everyone that you've ever loved
Grazing their lips upon your cheek

Lord, get me out of this city tonight
Cause I just want to make it out alive
Lord, get me out of this city tonight tonight
Oh, you made me feel alive
Here I am
Here I am again, running away from the truth
And just know, that you move me, like I've never been moved

Lord, get me out of this city tonight
Cause you are what made me feel alive
Here I am again, running away from the truth
Just know, that you move me, like I've never been moved
Yeah, you move me, like I've never been moved

Yeah, you move me, like I've never been moved
