Wish You Were Here

Delta Goodrem

I've been knock, knock, knocking at the thought of your door
But you're not, not, not here anymore,
I ring, ring, ring, you're every phone in my head
But I can't get through, the connection is dead,
I want, want to tell you about the news today
But you wouldn't believe me, you'd laugh it away,
There's a ghost standing at the foot of my bed
And it's you, it's you, it's you, it was you
They told me who was in trouble,
I couldn't breathe on the other side of the world
And there was nothing I could do, to help you,
It's true today would be your birthday
And it would've been your 27th year,
And i miss you in the earth's atmosphere,
I wish you were here... here
I go back, back, back, and every memory you're there
But the clock ticks over every minute we shared,
On my knees begging for it not to be true,
But it was you, was you, was you, it was you

They told me who was in trouble,
I couldn't breather on the other side of the world
And there was nothing I could do, to help you,
And it's true today would be your birthday
And it would've been your 27th year,
And I miss you in the earth's atmosphere,
I wish you were here,
Instead of just in my dreams and my imagination,
Confusing my completely from another dimension,
Can you see the beauty from a new beginning somewhere
Cos I feel like I won't repair with time,
It was you, was you, it was you,
They told me who was in trouble
I couldn't breathe on the other side of the world,
And there was nothing I could do, to help you
And it's true today would be your birthday
And it would've been your 27th year,
And I miss you in the earth's atmosphere,
I wish you were here

I wish you were here
