Whisper In the Wind

Tim Stop

I have heard that there's a whisper in the wind that speaks of love and loss everywhere it's been
And so it goes, and as it is it will remainIt's hard to think when things are happening so fast
We could make it better love, but could we ever make it last
Oh the future's always tied up in the pastYou know a friend of mine died there yesterday
Had a fight with cancer and all the sudden passed away
She had hopes and dreams but now lies quiet in her graveThey say these things can be a blessing in disguise
You can't really see that throught the teardrops in your eyes
But everyone lives, everyone diesI think about my friend and I wonder where she is Did she find God or does she wander in the wind
To remind the world of a life that could've been but never wasI have heard the whisper in the wind
I can feel the love I've lost as it passes through my skin
And so it goes, and as it is it will remain
