Bo Ningen

Left behind in the moment
'someday' what's been flowed before I knew it changes it's shape, turns around and comes back to nowhere. I forget something when I know new things as I get confused by certain things I already know.
I'm in the middle of unfamiliar place when I realise I'm turned around there, outside my voice. If I can manage to spin perfectly at the corner 'someday' I would change, even.
The moment of a crow getting dressed,
I'm turning around and around and disappearing.
