Avonmore

Bryan Ferry

As it was
In the beginning
Before the darkness
And the fall
I lay my head
On your heartbeat
Cloaking the dagger
Of your soul

I want a love thatâ€™s never ending
Through all the thunder and the rain
But thereâ€™s no sense in pretending
I know Iâ€™ll never fall in love again

What if you wake up
One morning
And youâ€™re living in a world
Thatâ€™s hard to face
What if the good times
Turn to sorrow
What if a stranger
Takes your place

I want a love thatâ€™s never ending
Through all the thunder and the rain
But thereâ€™s no sense in pretending
I know Iâ€™ll never fall in love again

I want a love thatâ€™s never ending
Through all the thunder and the rain
But thereâ€™s no sense in pretending
I know Iâ€™ll never fall in love again

Weâ€™ll cling
Together
In the moonlight
Burning the river
Into gold
Count all the minutes
Then the hours

Until your heart turns cold

I want a love thatâ€™s never ending
Through all the thunder and the rain
But thereâ€™s no sense in pretending
I know Iâ€™ll never fall in love again
