

Old Fashioned Love

Rachele Lynae

Changing out the pictures on the wall
It's funny you were
Nothing I was looking for at all
And now I see how
Too many times I've settled for
So much less than so much more
Don't think I'm dreaming, I'm just wondering
Is there anyone out there
Who would throw a pebble at my window
To steal one kiss
Cause he just can't resist
I'm not asking for the world
Or the stars up above
Just someone strong enough
With an honest touch
Whatever happened
To that old fashioned kind of love
I don't need a half to make me whole
But it'd sure be nice if
I could find a hand I'd like to hold
That certain kind of Man just as strong as my father was
Who knows how to fight and never give up
I'm not dreaming, I'm just wondering
Love, that could shake the ocean
That could set my heart in motion
The kind of love that won't leave me wondering
