

Detonate

Dragonette

another lover ends another obstical course we fall another ten feet through another trap door and I don't wanna find a safe way home I'm right where I want
And I believe we belong somewhere in between a lost and found and I, I don't think it can be wrong flying too close to the sun I swear this love is so precarious if you're a spark then I have my heart taken for pain and even in the tiniest gust we light up we light up in flames and detonate we detonate
we light up and detonate
detonate
living in our own, natural disaster not really what we want, but kinda what we asked for we don't need to find a place to hide 'cause we've come alive
And I believe we belong somewhere in between the right and wrong And I, don't think that we're done flying this close to the sun This kind of love is feeling dangerous if you're a spark then I have my heart take it for pain
and even in the tiniest gust we light up
we light up in flames and detonate
we detonate
we light up and detonate
we detonate
if this is our, our time to go is there a better way than to explode? fill up the sky with ashes and dust and when it settles down they will remember us for blowing up I swear this love is so precarious
if you're a spark then I have my heart take it for pain
and even in the tiniest gust we light up yeah
Oh this love is feeling dangerous you are a spark and I have my heart take it for pain and even in the tiniest gust we light up
we light up in flames and detonate

we detonate
we light up and detonate
detonate

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>