I Will Remember

aievea

I was born in the land of the sun, the tall green grass
And I don't understand how all this has come to pass
How we've come to surround ourselves in a sea of thieves
In a land without learning only the fools believe
I went driving last night on a dark canyon road
Had the sky to myself but wasn't alone
Had the pain of my lifetime for my company
How did it end up like this for you and me?
When love breaks the promise the heart has to keep
It leaves only truth here to find
When the spirit is crushed and the hurt is so deep
Between you and I
Even when love has come and gone
And our hearts have moved along, I will remember
There was a time we had the trust
And that always was enough, I will remember
I will remember you

As I open my eyes to one more day
The wind burns my face as it whispers your name
As it's pulling me forward, it tears me free
And the only thing left is the tears for you and me
'Cause when love breaks the promise the heart has to keep
It leaves only truth here to find
When the spirit is crushed and the hurt is so deep
Between you and I
Even when love has come and gone
And our hearts have moved along, I will remember
There was a time we had the trust
And that always was enough, I will remember
Even when love has come and gone
And our hearts have moved along, I will remember
There was a time we had the trust
And that always was enough, I will remember
I will remember you
