Specimen

A sculpture constructed for perfect system
Not knowing your true origin
You wander through life as instructed Not knowing the end of it all
The entity has written your life
Showed you your path but not how to walk it I know now the reason
Why these visions from beyond
Haunted me through life
As a supposed guidance So this is your way
Of showing me the truth
I'm tired of this game
Playing with my mind Hands that cannot move
Eyes that cannot see
Mouth that cannot speak
And a body that cannot feel Lifeless, limbless, speechless
No gestures of my own will
Soulless, mindless, feeling less
Even death won't greet me still Entrapment is all that's real
My mind is wired to your's
How long will you test my strength?
What follows when I am dead? How long will you test my strength?
What follows once I am gone?
Wired to you
Engagement is all I feel So this is your way
Of showing me the truth
I'm tired of this game
Playing with my mind
