Something Borrowed, Something Blue (live)

Ben Lee

Polystyrene, I wanna daydream
I need an enemy to get me through
Prodigal sunscreen, our love's a guillotine
Something borrowed, something blueAnother ship sunk, family tree trunk
Deep scar diving, I look for you
And we're hoping and we're choking
Something borrowed, something blueI get the feeling I could leave you on the interstate
I get the feeling like I just broke through
I get the feeling like you never mattered anyway
Something borrowed, something blueIt gets harder, my father
The way you managing the damage too
Polystyrene, I wanna daydream
Something borrowed, somethingI get the feeling I could leave you on the interstate
I get the feeling like I just broke through
I get the feeling like you never mattered anyway
Something borrowed, somethingI get the feeling I could leave you on the interstate
I get the feeling like I just broke through
I get the feeling like you never mattered anyway
Something borrowed, something blueSomething borrowed, something blue
Something borrowed, something blue
Something borrowed, something blueTen floors, I'm falling
Guess who I'm recalling?
Oh yeah, it's true
My life begins and ends with youI get the feeling I could leave you on the interstate
I get the feeling like I just broke through
I get the feeling like you never mattered anyway
Something borrowed, somethingI get the feeling I could leave you on the interstate
I get the feeling like I just broke through
I get the feeling like you never mattered anyway
Something borrowed, something blueSomething borrowed, something blue
Something borrowed, something blue
Something borrowed, something blue
