She Knows What She's Crying About

George Jones

You may think she's not been true
All those things she's telling you
But believe me, what she says is really true'Cause I'm the one who left her there
I'm the one who didn't care
And she knows what she's crying about
She knows what she's crying aboutShe bears the flame though
I'm to blame there's no doubt
I never even tried to say or accept the love she gave
And she knows what she's crying aboutShe gave me her very best
I was wrong to give the rest
All the love that she so desperately tried to hold
I made her shed a million tearsAll I did was waste her years
And she knows what she's crying about
She knows what she's crying aboutShe bears the flame though
I'm to blame there's no doubt
I never even tried to say or accept the love she gave
And she knows what she's crying about
