All

There must be something that you don't understand Because I can't believe all the things that you say, Well count me out of your plans About me - And they you want to stay And you know that hurts me, man I guess that all I have today Well I just can't believe No I just can't believe Is a memory of you yesterday The things you said to me today That couldn't have been you I saw That must have been another girl It's true that you look the same But you're acting so different 'Cause you're playing a whole new game With those new friends of yours The ones that you met last week I hope that they prove to be All the images they wanted you to see And pick you off the ground Well I won't stick around When things come crashing down Now you're walking on a ledge Don't walk with me And now you've lost your edge Don't talk to me No I just can't believe 'Cause I just can't believe The things you said today
