

Lullaby

Justin Nozuka

Twenty miles too fast
Acceleration on the gas
Well, she wakes up to the glass And reaches out for her baby
(Oh, oh, oh)
She reaches out for her baby Her son wakes up, the birds are singing
She wakes up to the day
The skies are clear, new life appears
All she sees is the rain, everyday is the same Cigarettes all stamped on the desk
And empty bottles on the ground
A baby picture on the fridge
Of Katie reaching for her
All she knew about was love 2001 to 2005 always remember by her beautiful smile
Katie tattooed on her arm, her mamas gotta live on Lullabye Memories of the walks down to the parks
And drawing flowers on the pavement
And sharing double scooped ice cream Her favorite flavor was strawberry
Yeah, yeah
An empty swing, an empty yard And empty play house
Her only joy is now gone
And now she's left all alone 2001 to 2005 always remember by her beautiful smile
Katie tattooed on her arm, now mamas gotta live on Lullabye, lullabye Flash backs to the past and 30 miles too fast
Acceleration on the gas
While she, she wakes up to the glass A shattered mirror of the past
She reaches for her baby
Reaches out for her baby Starts getting takes her hand
Takes her hand this time
Heaven, in heaven 1976 to 2005 always remember by her beautiful smile
Sarah tattooed on her arm, now mamas gotta live on Lullabye, oh, oh, lullabye 2001 to 2005 always remember by her beautiful smile
Katie tattooed on her arm, grand mama's gotta live on 1976 to 2005 always remember by her beautiful smile
Sarah tattooed on her arm, now mamas gotta live on
Lullabye, lullabye

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>