

Don't Forget

Martha Wainwright

Summer comes and rain falls away
But the very next day it seems
The snow comes to stay
And you too will go just like the dog days do
I'll put on my hat, my gloves, my scarf
To keep the cold apart But there are no hats, gloves, scarves for the heart
Just a cold wind that leaves its frosted mark
Don't forget that I will always love you
Just a reminder to help you pave your pathway The fall it cools, in the winter it snows
Spring it rains, summer comes and you go
And in my silly mind I've gotten married to you
You're across town, don't even have a clue Or these images that in ten years
I'll run into you and fall right back inside of you
Don't forget that I will always love you
Just a reminder to help you pave your pathway In the fall it cools, in the winter it snows
Spring it rains, summer comes and you go
Don't forget that I will always love you
Just a reminder to help you pave your pathway In the fall it cools, in the winter it snows
Spring it rains, summer comes and you go
So when will we meet next and where will it be?
On a platform track, in an old movie? 'Cause time moves in circles and can leave you anywhere
In the fall it cools and in the winter it snows
Spring it rains, summer comes and you go
