

I Heard Your Voice in Dresden

Elvis Perkins in Dearland

I heard your voice in the Dresden
As baby took to the stairs
With all my loving
Heard your voice in the Dresden
Now it follows me everywhere Dear woman at the gates of the dawn
It's my birthday, may I come in
I'll tell my brother and if I had one
I'd tell my sisters too
You alone may sing my hymns and Raise the warning
Raise the warning He's bottled his tears
Raise that warning
The warning
Raise the warning
The beginning is near Oh, I heard your voice in the Dresden
As baby boarded the liner in Paris
Now I heard your voice in Dresden
And now it follows me everywhere Dear land from the giant
Speakers of all man
Time from the swollen mountain tops
The stolen sun thoughts the solar wind chimes
To ring the morning the morning up
Oh, ring the morning the morning up Oh, I heard your voice in Dresden
And now it follows me everywhere Now let us together sing the sun
To the home in the heavens
From the sea from the sea
Oh yes and to our loving mother
We'll say, yes, we will see you another day
Oh yes, oh yes for I can't hold my life can't hold my life
Can't hold my life in the march on glory, glory, glory, glory, Gloria
We march on glory, glory, glory, Hallelujah Oh, I heard your voice in the Dresden
As baby took to the air with all my lovin'
Heard your voice in Dresden
Now it follows me every Follows me every
Follows me everywhere Some have said our love is lost
But I swear I know my way from here
Yes some have said our love is lost
But I swear I know my way from here
Yes some have said our love is lost

But I swear I know my way from here
