

Nashville

Dylan Holland

These long summer days have kept me thinking
About the lies of love and faces that I should believe in My eyes start to swell when I think of leaving
But days come and go and this is just the weekend
Big city with a little guitar and a road of endless dreams
Right here theres a place in this world where I can finally be me
Im so glad that I can love you and I know youll never leave
And a place where dreams are made is a place I wanna be
When I go back home I lay down and I think silently
Theres something missing inside of me,
I left my heart back in Nashville

Yeah

As I cross that old bridge on the faint Ohio line my thoughts start racing man I wish I had more time these walls are built inside my mind seem to wrap all the way around and I feel my heart is breaking cause when it beats it makes no sound now a days im feeling strange maybe Im starting to lose my mind but when im here I dont need to fear
I just put the past behind me yeahhh
Im so glad that I can love you and I know youll never leave
And a place where dreams are made is a place I wanna be
When I go back home I lay down and I think silently
Theres something missing inside of me,
I left my heart back in Nashville
Its just me and my guitar and an endless road to nowhere maybe ill find help along the way keep pushing thru and I know that Ill get stronger thru the day
I just wish that I could stay
Im so glad that I can love you and I know youll never leave
In a place where dreams are made is a place I wanna be yeah yeah
When I go back home I lay down and I think silently woah
Theres something missing inside of me,
I left my heart back in Nashville,
I left my heart back in Nashville,
These long summer days have kept me thinking
About the lies of love and the faces that I should believe in
