Hanging High

Lykke Li

Oh, thunder in my heart
These razors cutting sharp
And leaves me with an ever bleeding scarSo soft, so suddenly
So that I cannot breathe
I'm drawn into a circle painted blackOh, I'm hanging high
Oh, won't you let me down?
Back where I started at
You know I'm a little lostAnd when it hurts the most
I'll push a little more
I'm back where I started at
You know I'm a little lostLike lightning in my heart
A kiss so burning hot
I'm hanging on a thread that's bound to dropLike rain on open skies
Don't know the reason why
But I'll always choose the black in front of whiteOh, I'm hanging high
Oh, won't you let me down?
Back where I started at
You know I'm a little lostAnd when it hurts the most
I'll push a little more
I'm back where I started at
You know I'm a little lostOh, I'm hanging high
Oh, won't you let me down?
Back where I started atWhen it hurts the most
I'll push a little more
I'm back where I started at
