

Little Sister

New Medicine

Little sister, I'm gonna miss ya,
Sometimes you keep me up all night long.
When your memory, comes to me,
If it don't kill me then it'll make me strong. Little sister, now you'll be eighteen,
And posing in your graduation dress.
It's probably better, we're not together,
The world's on fire, it's a fucked up mess. Do your wings fit good, can you fly?
And do your wings fit good, can you fly? It's almost like you've been carrying me,
A little angel always watching over me.
Save me from the danger I can't see,
I always seem to know where I'm supposed to be. When in the darkest place, (whoa)
You're my light, you're my saving grace. (whoa)
You'll be an angel but you'll always be,
Little sister. Little sister, I'm here for ya,
If you ever need to talk to me.
Not gonna keep you, just love to see you,
Is there any way they'll let you leave? Do your wings fit good, can you fly?
And do your wings fit good, can you fly? It's almost like you've been carrying me,
A little angel always watching over me.
Save me from the danger I can't see,
I always seem to know where I'm supposed to be. When in the darkest place, (whoa)
You're my light, you're my saving grace. (whoa)
You'll be an angel but you'll always be,
Little sister. [Instrumental] Do your wings fit good, can you fly?
I hope your wings fit good, when you fly. It's almost like you've been carrying me,
A little angel always watching over me.
Save me from the danger I can't see,
I always seem to know where I'm supposed to be. When in the darkest place, (whoa)
You're my light, you're my saving grace. (whoa)
You'll be an angel but you'll always be,
Little sister. Little sister. I hope your wings fit good

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>