

Momentary Breakdown

Alise Joste

you walked me home late that night and you laid a kiss on my hand say goodbye and though it's been a long, long time since the night we walked our separate ways you're on my mind and I've been here before I've walked this floor and I already know we're collapsing and I kept you near, and I kept you distant but the more I get, the more I fail I was wrong but there are things I have to deal with in my own specific puzzled way and I'll be fine and I've been here before I've walked this floor
and I already know we're collapsing and it's a simple rule to keep in your mind that nothing ever changes but you time will never be on your side
