Fade

Staind

I try to breathe
Memories overtaking me
I try to face them but
The thought is too much to conceiveI only know that I can change
Everything else just stays the same
So now I step out of the darkness
That my life became 'causeI just needed someone to talk to
You were just too busy with yourself
You were never there for me
To express how I felt, I just stuffed it downNow I'm older and I feel like
I could let some of this anger fade
But it seems the surface
I am scratching is the bed that I have madeSo where were you
When all this I was going through?
You never took the time to ask me
Just what you could doI only know that I can change
Everything else just stays the same
So now I step out of the darkness
That my life became 'causeI just needed someone to talk to
You were just too busy with yourself
You were never there for me
To express how I felt, I just stuffed it downNow I'm older and I feel like
I could let some of this anger fade
But it seems the surface
I am scratching is the bed that I have madeBut I never meant to fade away
I never meant to fadeI just needed someone to talk to
You were just too busy with yourself
You were never there for me to Express how I felt I just stuffed it downNow I'm older and I feel like
I could let some of this anger fade
But it seems the surface
I am scratching is the bed that I have madeI try to breath
