What I've Done

Until June

Underneath the sky, we sleep
The sunlight in my eyes keeps me from seeing clearly
And deep beneath the stars, I'm lost
The darkness in my heart keeps me from letting go
Of everything I fear the most
And now I'm begging you, don't let goAnd I'm alone and I'm ashamed
Hold me in your arms
And now I'm sorry for what I've doneTied around the mess I've made
The air I breathe, much harder, every time I speak
The words you've heard a thousand times
I've tried before but now I feel like letting go
Of everything that hurts the most
And now I'm begging you, don't let goAnd I'm alone and I'm ashamed
Hold me in your arms
And now I'm sorry for what I've doneAnd after all is said and done
You pick me up no matter where I fall
You hold me in your arms
Forgive me when I'm wrongAnd I'm alone and I'm ashamed
Hold me in your arms
And now I'm sorry for what I've done
And I'm alone and I'm ashamed
Hold me in your arms
And now I'm sorry for what I've done
