Coldest Of Calendars (Album Version)

Punchline

I've heard stories through silence and we laugh at the end and declare that today was the best day we've lived but the end of the night draws a calm to the dark where I dream you exist in the places you aren'tI'm cold inside and these pictures can't even explain what's missing in my life.
The coldest of calendars I couldn't have it any better Half the time I am alive just to see your smileI'm cold inside I'm cold insidesomeday you will understand it just takes a little timeThere's a letter here waiting to go in the mail
In my head its all there but I'm not quite prepared to fade away
Don't fade away
Somehow I'll try to do this rightI'm cold inside and these pictures can't even explain what's missing in my life.
The coldest of calendars I couldn't have it any better
Half the time I am alive just to see your smileSometimes I feel cold inside and It feels like I am sleeping outside.
Indoors is a light I can see in your eyesI've seen nights without sleep Days without daylight
These memories I keep won't keep me warm at night
The coldest part is the heart that we share its breaking apart and you're not even here to say things will get better So freezing I'll blanket my discontent till I sleep againI'm cold insideI'm saving a story that won't begin til you're there
