Joan

Lene Lovich

Joan, are you listening to my voice?
You can?t escape, you have no choice
It?s just as real as anything said
Outside your head

The voice inside you bites your mind
You can?t ignore the words this time
Are twice as loud as the jealous crowd
That makes you cry

Like Joan of Arc you must be brave
And listen to your heart
Imagination is essential to creative art
So look into your mind
And use what you may find
The answer lies behind your eyes
Its not that far

Joan, it appears you?ve seen the light
You must allow the light to shine
Ignore the normal boundary lines
That keep you tied

The world is full of hate and fear
You must expect to shed some tears
But precious are the eyes
That see the new ideas

Like Joan of Arc you must be brave
And listen to your heart
Imagination is essential to creative art
So look into your mind
And use what you may find
The answer lies behind your eyes
Its not that far
