Scarlet Letter, Pt. 2

Halifax

Crush my bones tonight
So thin that they might
Slide under his door
And leave my heart for the world to see
(Leave this to me)He thinks he's great
So clueless as to the situation
He's put himself in
Buried beneath his salted memoriesSo cough, cough, cough it up
Have you lost your breath?
Or maybe that's me
Tearing out your lungsTell me how it feels
To know that this is
Just my dream
And it's your realityA scream pulls me in the direction
Of my living room
A body laying on the floor
Looking at me with a blank
Blank stare on his faceDoes this seem familiar?
Does this seem familiar?So cough, cough, cough it up
Have you lost your breath?
Or maybe that's me
Tearing out your lungsTell me how it feels
To know that this is
Just my dream
And it's your realitySo cough, cough, cough it up
Have you lost your breath?
Or maybe that's me
Tearing out your lungsSo tell me how it feels
To know that this is
Just my dream
And it's your reality
And it's your reality
And it's your
