

Fallin'

Dispatch

Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again Does anybody know this man, can anybody understand?
How long is the road we come today?
Days now rapped in silence, wonder what is this violence
Keeps his mouth locked shut and his tongue at bay Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again Senior, I have a question, in you is there a lesson
Story rapped so tight that you need share
You got a trusted, here's a stranger, you escaped your recent danger
Tell me what in this life we need beware? Please excuse my insolence, I did nothing here to offend
Though my eyes don't blink, yes, my mind does think that
In you I've found a friend
Please accept my innocence I did nothing more this day
When I was lost you were the 'cause that I knew I would surely be Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again
Fallin', I am fallin' down the mountain once again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>