

A Cry for Everyone

Gentle Giant

Run, why should I run away
When at the end the only truth certain -
One day everyone dies -
If only to justify life. Live, I've lived a thousand lives;
And anyone is the right, the just life.
If I could cry, I'd cry for everyone. Doubts, no doubt, is all I know.
There is no fate, there's no luck,
what does
that show.
Showing is proof, but proving is nothing but fear. If I could cry, I'd cry then for everyone.
