

You Just Have To Be There

M People

Well a strange thing happened to me yesterday.
I looked at your stars and ooh I saw the Milky Way.
And if you could feel just half as much as me,
Then I wouldn't be just another leaf on your tree.
'Cause I never thought I'd feel this way,
You are my life, my night and day.
It's such a thrill deep down inside,
Just too much love for me to hide. You just have to be there. In my life.
You just have to be there. It feels so right. I wake up alone and everything is cold and grey.
You walk in a room and brighten up a cloudy day.
Friends will arrive then they disappear,
But if you want me baby, honey I'll be here.
'Cause all those little things said in the dark.
One touch from you ignites the spark.
Sweetest boy, you can do no wrong.
The power of love, it burns so strong. You just have to be there. In my life.
You just have to be there. It feels so right.

Songwriters

HEARD, MICHAEL PAUL/PICKERING, MIKE Published by

Lyrics © EMI Music Publishing, Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S.
Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>