

Selling Myself Short

Palm Trees & Power Lines

Do you remember? You were my anchor
When I fell you held me up
And made me strong
Left a note by the coffee maker
Turns out you faked it all along
I was dead wrong
I've been selling myself short
Since you left me, but I don't care
You took the pictures and the memories
But I don't care
You said we were something
When we were nothing
So take a breath and you'll see
You can't take my heart from me
I still remember
The weight of the pressure
How you held me down
And let me drown alone
Taken over by a time bomb temper
Tick tock you blew up all along
I was dead wrong
