

Just to Be Friends

Declan O'Rourke

We fell into a deep sleep,
Just like we said no kissing or nothing, except holding hands,
It was just as we wanted, if no more then we should,
For the wrongest of reasons but it still felt as good,

Sometimes you go right ahead with these things,
But sometimes its better just to be friends,

She had told me her story and I told her mine,
And with every new sentence we drew a new line,
Moving different directions along the same street,
Both admiring each other and cursing our feet,

Sometimes you can't help feeling these things,
oh, sometimes you want to be more then just friends

Well maybe we've caught this thing early enough,
Yes it could be a blessing in the long run of love
Cause the web we'd be weaving would get so tangled up,
How come sometimes your good luck feels more like its tough,

Could it be maybe that's just the nature of things,
And we'll have to just settle for just being friends,
Could we really come this far just to be friends,
We've come a long way now baby just to be friends,

Well at least we have that much girl,
Ain't it good to have friends,
We'd be more but these rules only break and don't bend,
But hey, it's not such a bad thing we had this little fall,
If we didn't have this we'd have nothing at all

But ain't it funny, its funny and curious when, you must falter as lovers just to be friends,
Ain't it funny, funny and curious when you must fail first as lovers just to be friends, But then we kissed,

Now I'm so sorry baby we can't even be that,
It's so nice to be near you but its wrong and it's bad,
I'm confused and I don't know how strong I can be,
Cause I so want to love you, oh but baby so does he.
