

Heaven Can Wait

Charlotte Gainsbourg

She's sliding, she's sliding down to the depth of the world She's fighting, she's fighting the urge to make aHeaven can wait and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the groundShe's hiding, she's hiding on a battleship of baggage and bones
There's thunder, there's lightening in an avalanche of faces you knowHeaven can wait
and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between
what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the groundYou left your credentials in a greyhound station with a first aid kit and a flashlight Going to a unknownHeaven can wait
and hell's too far ago
Somewhere between
what you need and what you know
And they're trying to drive that escalator into the ground
