Every Song I Sing

Chase Rice

In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth that lies within In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth that lies within The birds and the bees they cling Together sweet honey they bring Just notice everything From winter to spring He made the raindrops fall He quench earth's thirst for all How could I deny Jah Rastafari When them system fail He keeps an eye on them There's no question why I hail Rastafari In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth that lies within In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth that lies within Around Rastafari throne That's where I wanna build my home Where there's always love And nothing to prove Whether you are tall Or whether you are small Jah seh equal rights And justice for us all When them system fail Jah keep an eye on them There's no question why I hail Rastafari In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth that lies within In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King He is the truth and lies within Around Rastafari throne That's where I wanna build my home

Where there's always love

And nothing to prove
'Cause whether you are tall
'Cause whether you are small
Jah seh equal rights
And justice for us all
'Cause when them system fail
Jah keep an eye on them
'Cause how could I deny
The Rastafari?
In every song I sing, I just got to hail my King
He is the truth that lies within
