Told Me

Dusky Grey & Catrin Hopkins

You told me, baby, "I will never let you go"
Told me that I would never have to be alone
How things change when you lose your games
Now I tell you, baby, that you'll always be alone

Na na na na na

One day you will look back at her
And you'll think 'Oh God, I did something stupid for sure'
But you'll move on to those other girls
And lie to them like you did to me at the start
As say, "I love yah, I need yah, come see ya. We have a, a future, I'll please yah."
And then she'll say...

"You told be, baby, I will never let you go."
Told me that I would never have to be alone
How things change when you lose your games
Now I tell you, baby, that you'll always be alone

One day you might find the right girl
But she will know what you're all about, she won't listen to your
"I love yah, I need yah, come see ya. We have a, a future, I'll please yah."
And then she'll say....

"You told be, baby, I will never let you go."
Told me that I would never have to be alone
How things change when you lose your games
Now I told you, baby, that you'd always be alone

And you'll be alone (alone)
That you'll fall for being so low (so low)
And you'll be alone
That you'll fall for being so low (so low)

Told you to be happy and you threw it in my face
Told you to be something that would get you out this place
Told you to be everything they said you couldn't be
Never thought that someone couldn't be with me

"You told be, baby, I will never let you go."

Told me that I would never have to be alone
I hope you know that I'm just a girl you used to know
And I'll tell you, baby, you never should've let me go.

Na na na na na
