A Step Back

Evans Blue

Embrace the atmosphere Save face but have your fill Never mind the rules in here And don't believe 'emI know you'll, you'll fall through Replace your life with fear Withdrawing your love here I know you, you want to You don't feel the absence You won't see the painI'm taking a step back from inside Forsaking the life that I once had I've tried, I hate that you already do I'm making a run from the dark side Replacing the night with the sunlight I've tried, I hate that you already doSeparate your faults in life And get used to bloodshot eyes Never mind the sleepless nights Just follow your own fightI know you'll, you'll fall through Replace your fear with life Withdrawing this spotlight I know you, you'll want too You don't feel the absence You won't see the painI'm taking a step back from inside Forsaking the life that I once had I've tried, I hate that you already do I'm making a run from the dark side Replacing the night with the sunlight I've tried, I hate that you already doFuck you for lying For pointing and then hiding You must be right, it must be true Fuck me for dreaming For trying to find my meaning What was I thinking, it's all for youI'm taking a step back from inside Forsaking the life that I once had

Lyrics provided by

https://damnlyrics.com/

I've tried, I hate that you already do I'm making a run from the dark side Replacing the night with the sunlight I've tried, I hate that you already do