

I Hope You're Wrong

Lost Dog Street Band

friend when you go, hope you cure your disease. pick up the pieces and dust off your jeans, and ill hit the highway you know it helps with the grief. you go your way and take a part of me. i hope your wrong about destiny, how we are bound by rage and tragedy. our shackles are strong and the road is steep. but when your gone brother in song i hope your wrong. friend in your eyes, i know you've seen the worst in me, kept all the secrets and helped me believe. our lives a hymnal you know its sad and its sweet, and i wrote the chorus and you found the melody. i hope your wrong about destiny, how we are bound by rage and tragedy. our shackles are strong and the road is steep, but when you are gone, brother in song i hope your wrong. and our hearts are golden, we're both broke as can be, found our salvation's for chemicals and grief, ill bring the matchbook, you bring kerosene, we'll burn the pages and start over clean. i hope your wrong about destiny, oh and how were bound by rage and tragedy, our shackles are strong and the road is steep, but when you are gone, brother in song i hope your wrong, but when your gone brother in song i hope your wrong.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>