

Radio Girl (Live Wacken)

Volbeat

Oh radio play me that sweet heavenly song

Well it's Saturday night and we all get into town
Broken by heartache but driven be her sound

Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart

Oh radio man would you please play that song

One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up

Alone I roam
Cause the drive-in is closing, the movies out of work

But the music is playing in my old Bett Betty Ford

Oh radio man would you please play that song

One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up

Alone I roam
Standing in the rain with one coin for a booth call

Oh Madeline, the station told my that they didn't even know your name, for helvede Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline

The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends
Broken by heartache but driven be her sound

Well a spell from the speakers was tearing my soul apart

Oh radio man would you please play that song

One day I know that I'll marry that girl
Come home, baby I know it, please dial me up

Alone I roam
Strolling to another city just to catch a song, oh Madeline

The frequency is better, but I'm freezing on a parking lot, it never ends
