

Sick Heart River

Soilwork

Leaning against what's next to me
Have no fear, won't see
Will it eat me up or bring me down?
I'll gradually make up my mind, my mind
Revolution within myself
I'm puzzled, still overwhelmed
By the stories that you would tell
They always send me something
Revolution within myself, within myself
Let me give my best, I won't depend
This time I will make another plan to find
What's left and nothing less, still I won't tread
I'll find my own way to make it all worth while
Call, call on me darkness
Wait, wait on me, now
Won't you say, say that I'm sorry?
'Cause I won't wait
I've found another form
It's breeding life
It must have been there
The whole time when I was dead

'Cause I was pledged to emptiness
And now I've let myself
To see all the thins
I just didn't expect
Still I remember, still I repent
I'd walk through the never
Despite my descent
Reborn, acknowledging
The part of me that once was lost
I have repressed, too many years
My utopia was within my grasp
Doomed in absentia
Still rising to cherish
And all the things I have left
And all the things I have left
Call, call on me darkness

Wait, wait on me now
Won't you say, say that I'm sorry?
'Cause I won't wait
