Just Like Somebody Else

Big Daddy Weave

Hiding out in this cave for better than forty days
Don?t know how much more 'cause it?s been just that long
Seasons came and they've gone but still I remain
So sick of singing the same sad song
When the foundation?s already been laid
Now all that?s left for me to do
Is to choose to embrace following You
Stepping out from the old into the new
I?ll be following right here behind You
You set me free to be myself
But the me in Your heart looks just like somebody else
Just like somebody else
Wasted years of my life
Worried over how I could ever meet such expectations
But none of my former fears seem to matter now
That who I am is found within Your Son
My identity has been replaced, bought with Your blood
I am completely covered by Your grace to walk by faith
Stepping out from the old into the new
I?ll be following right here behind You
You set me free to be myself
But the me in Your heart looks just like somebody else
Stepping out from the old into the new
I?ll be following right here inside You
Who I was just don?t mean much
When the me in Your heart looks just like Jesus
I don?t want anything from this life that You don?t want for me
I don?t want anything from this life that You don?t want for me
I don?t want anything from this life that You don?t want for me
So won?t you come and make me into just who You want me to be?
Stepping out from the old into the new
I?ll be following right here inside You
The old me just don't mean much
When the me in Your heart looks just like Jesus
Stepping out from the old into the new
I?ll be following right here behind You
You set me free to be myself
But the me in Your heart looks just like somebody else
Stepping out from the old into the new

I?ll be following right here inside You
Who I was just don't mean much
Just like Jesus, just like Jesus, just like Jesus
