Chasing Fear

Testament

FearParalyzed and never coming back
Even when your eyes are open everything turns to black
Soon forgotten senses incubates the soul
Hiding from the light fantastic waiting for the showContemplation, reality starts to fade
Creeping stare behind dead eyes as the minutes burn the day
Inactive wandering still can't get a grip
Can God hear your cry before you start to slipChasing fear, human mind unglued
Unaware, that fear is chasing youEndless waiting for nothing to appear
Even when your eyes are shut the visions are so clear
Harmonious dissidence obscure reckoning
Did you hear that final note of silent sufferingChasing fear, human mind unglued
Disappear, the sickness inside of you
Chasing fear, nothing you can do
Unaware, that fear is chasing youLoss of function withering of the will Condemned to a state of nothing moving in for the kill
Brain cells slowly boil, memories intertwined
Listening to that empty space, atrophy of the mindChasing fear, human mind unglued
Disappear, the sickness inside of you
Chasing fear, nothing you can do
Unaware, that fear is chasing you
