

Slumberland

Should

he woke just then to what? he wasn't sure and found her feverish and standing in the sun it struck him all at once that he was lost he hadn't a plan for this or anything at all

oh, why must we move on?
can't we be left alone?
to wander in our own slumberland
as we hit all the stars that further drift afar
we have it all; we won't dream no more as the day wore on he traveled more and knocked on all the doors that hadn't tumbled down he stayed awake with her and told his love that she would run free in days but days were all they had

oh, why must we move on?
can't we be left alone?
to wander in our own slumberland
as we hit all the stars
that further drift afar
we have it all; we won't dream no more

as his life moved on he wandered more from that departed door so stately on that hill but he was always drawn to wander stars that's where they're dreaming dreaming

that's where they're dreaming
that's where they're dreaming
dreaming

Lyrics submitted by Marc.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>