

Oh, Woe

Ben Gibbard

Oh, woe why do you stay
And make me feel this awful way?
You filled my heart with your solemn tune
And an endless burning blush hue

It's been a basement of a year
And all I want is for you to disappear

But oh, woe you caught my eye
And I thought that I'd give you a try
But you're nothing like the way you looked
In all those famous songs and books

And now I see how you snuff the light
And it's so confounding trying to cut you down
Trying to find a place to begin

Oh, woe please hear this plea
To walk away and leave me be
I've weathered more than I can take
Of your ever-present lonely ache

Lyrics submitted by Brady Kilpatrick.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>